

June 28 NBCC Drive

June 28, 2014 we started the Drive rendezvousing in Franklin with coffee/doughnuts waiting for the 14 (Antique & daily driver) cars of 27 adventurous folks ready to ride throughout the countryside.

It drizzled rain on, and off, often with the sun shining at the same time, only for about 45min. However, that didn't deter us from cruising over the hills, and through the woods towards Dickson, Tn. The fields were fresh glistening green, the air cool which was nice for the end of June.

Along the way stopping to see David Rivers (featured on TN. Crossroads) at "Rivers Neon Art" to see Neon glass bending. This is a rare skill that is a dying art form. Neon is used to create advertising signs, and art sculptures. People come from all over the US to learn David's process.

Following that the sun popped out in full form. We some enjoyed blue skies as we proceeded to downtown Dickson for a tasty lunch at "Lugo's". Afterwards, some folks checked out local antique shop's seeking hidden treasures, while others headed down the road a few minutes further to visit a local Amish "Country View Market" in Charlotte, TN.

We sat on the front porch in comfortable wooden rockers, checked out all the local homemade fried pies, ice cream, countless spices, candies, and remedies used long ago. Our appreciation goes out to those of you that braved the early morning gray skies. It was wonderful spending time together with old, and new friends ! Thanks for joining us.
